Promontory Point

Chicago Park District

Last Updated June 30, 2010

Come and see what the renowned designer Daniel Burnham envisioned when he created the plans for Promontory Point.

In 1933-4 this site was home to Chicago's second World's Fair.

This quaint building provides crystal clear skyline views and is surrounded by heavenly meadows. The magnificent French doors open onto stone verandas just steps from Lake Michigan. The exposed brick interior along with the historic architecture make this cozy castle-like site a must see.

The opportunity to make use of the indoor space in conjunction with the open-air verandas has lured many meetings, social gatherings, and weddings to this lakeside locale.

Promontory Point is a seasonal facility open May-October. The building does not offer air conditioning, although heat is available in May & October, if necessary. Open Houses to view the venue are on Wednesdays from 4pm-6pm, from May through October.

Promontory Point is a "comfort station", which means the public has access to the restrooms during your event (via separate doors from the outside of the building that lead directly to the restrooms). However, the personnel/labor fee provides you an attendant and a security officer. The attendant insures that the restrooms and grounds remain clean regardless of who uses them. The security officer insures that the public does not disturb your event.
