Washington Park Refectory

Last Updated April 15, 2011

The Chicago Park District's elegant Washington Park Refectory is located at 5531 S. Russell Drive, just east of Martin Luther King Drive.

The facility sits adjacent to the Aquatic Center, which houses a 36-foot waterslide plus a swimming pool with a patio and fountains.

The Refectory has a rich history that is interwoven with Chicago's architectural design legends. Daniel H. Burnham & Company designed and built the pool and Russell Drive in 1891, two years before the Columbia Exposition.

The Refectory features ground level colonnades and four open-roof towers. The classically designed Refectory building and grounds offer two distinguished floors.
